

The Heroic Journey

Graphic adapted from work derived from Joseph Campbell, Robin Van Doren, Peter Bailey

The Heroic Journey draws from early work from Joseph Campbell and from cultures around the world. Each of us is presented by challenges throughout our lives from which we may choose to learn, or not. The Heroic Journey model offers us a valuable perspective on the cycle of life and learning. It can be a key to the map of our lives, helping us interpret the landscape, symbols and contour lines of the paths we are on.

Many of us are facilitators of experience. We help people make sense of their choices, how they respond to what happens to them in real life. The Heroic Journey is a useful tool for us to provide a starting place for deeper conversations. It is also an open challenge to us as practitioners to better understand the journeys we are on and the choices we have made, that we might serve as allies for others we meet along the way.
